IS FOR MEN WHO ARE SATISFIED WITH NOTHING LESS THAN THE BEST.

It is designed, cut, tailored and trimmed with this one end in view—to disarm the criticism of the most critical. It is as natural as gravitation that the better class of buyers in any community should turn to the merchant who can show them such clothing as this, which has all the advantages of the expensive made-to-measure kind with none of the drawbacks.

Another round on the ladder of virtues must be attained to, beside honesty, gratitude, congeniality and love for one's neighbor. All of these are prerequisites. But the plan of salvation instituted by the most High must be ignored. Tom Paine was perhaps honest in his dealings with mankind, but he let infidelity sap the very foundation of all hope of ever having the pleasure of ascending up to the highest heaven, or of being permitted to assimilate or associate with the holy angels. We must accept and perform all the requirements made in the great plan before we can reach the height that the human mind would readily grasp if they could see a literal door opened in the heavens. "Eye hath not seen nor ear heard nor bath it entered into the heart of man to conceive of the excellency the glory that awaits the faithful christian." I do not mean merely a church member who makes an outward display of piety. But those who have been the recipients of the Holy Ghost and to whom God hath manifested himself to according to the promises made in holy writ. All of which will be verified and enjoyed by the sanctified. Not the amount of money sent away on foreign missions to a people, the most of whom spurn the donations but who are kind to their own nationality. When the Lord commissioned his disciples to go out into all the world and preach the gospel He meant for them to preach to the world they then knew and had accepted. He admonished them to go without money and without script. To eat whatever was set before them, and if not made welcome to shake the dust off their feet—and all the peace that they might have brought into that family to be returned or taken away from it. Suppose all the money that is and has been sent on foreign missions was distributed among the poor in this country. It would enable them to furnish their children and themselves with luscious fruits, both tropical and semi-tropical. How nice it would be. Some have not the means to gratify their taste only once in a great while, but every child must carry its nickel on Sunday to the church and be deprived of the luxuries that they ought to enjoy. We ought to pay our preachers well and keep up the churches in good style, but let all other nations worship according to the dictates of their own consciences. Only a few years ago Chinamen were threatening to come to America to teach us how to be saved. What would the christians do in that case? Would they murder them? God accorded to every nation a country of their own, placing a vast sea, ocean or gulf between them. Then had an Eden prepared for a people after His own image whom He restricted in the ordinance of marriage with other nations. Isis.

The leading story of Lippincott's Magazine for July is "An Orchard Princess," by Ralph Henry Barbour. This is almost enough to say in its commendation; for those who read his other Lippincott novel, "Kitty of the Roses," will be sure of an idyllic treat in picking up a second tale by him. The "Orchard Princess" is wooded as she sketches the orchard dy by day, by a very persistent man and an unyielding bull pup; and how it all turns out the reader will want to discover for himself.

freely and frankly, in strictest confidence, telling us all your symptoms and troubles. We will send free advice (in plain sealed envelope), how to cure them. Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

"I SUFFERED GREATLY"

writes Mrs. L. E. Clevenger, of Bellevue, N. C., "at my monthly periods, all my life, but the first bottle of Cardui gave me wonderful relief, and now I am in better health than I have been for a long time. I think Cardui the greatest woman's medicine in the world."

To the Local Optionists of Texas.

You are urgently invited to attend the annual convention of the Texas Local Option Association at the city hall, Dallas, Texas, July 4th, 1905, beginning at 10 a. m.

Matters of vital importance to the best interests of society and good government in Texas will be under consideration. Every friend of the church, of the home and of civic righteousness in Texas, who can do so, ought to attend this meeting. We have selected this date because of the reduced railroad rates that will prevail at that time.

Remember the Texas Local Option Association is not a political organization and that its sole purpose is to aid by non-partizan, non-sectarian methods in closing the drunkard factories in Texas and keeping them closed.

If you want to help to accomplish this purpose and no organization sends representatives from your community, consider yourself a delegate and come.

Write our secretary regarding any matters of special interest.

The Woman's Home Companion for July has much that is appropriate to the besides the regular good things for which it can always be depended upon. It opens with a Fourth of July story, "A Declaration of Independence," and its other fiction includes a story, "The Second Suicide of Caleb Johnson," by Leroy Scott, author of that successful book of the hour, "The Walking Delegate," and another by Morgan Robertson, author of so many fascinating sea stories, called "The Floating Mine." There are three or four other short stories. Marion Harland's serial is concluded, and there are beautifully illustrated articles on "Alice in Wonderland" in Real Life, "Unconventional Bungalows of Professional Women," and "The Epworth League," by the editor of The Epworth Herald. There are two full pages of striking photographs of "Fresh-Air" children, and one, "Lovers of All Nations." The usual ample space is given to fashions, and Mrs. Sangster's page and all the regular departments are found in their places. Published by The Crowell Publishing Company, Springfield, Ohio; one dollar a year; ten cents a copy.

The rainy spell this week was more than even a web-footed biped could stand.

A bad washout occurred on M. K. & T. road Tuesday the other side of Avinger. Several hundred feet of track and a bridge was washed out. The noon passenger left their cars here and the engine went back to Waskom and brought up the bridge crew that were at work there to go on to the washout and repair the bridge and track. All passenger trains were delayed until next day.

The Rainfall.

The past week has been one of unprecedented rainfall. It begun to rain Sunday afternoon, at which time we had a very heavy rain; then it kept up with showers almost continuously to noon Tuesday, when we had several hours of heavy rain—almost a waterspout. Light rain fell Wednesday amounting in all over six inches.
